

I would like to say that the FCC should not over rule the state legislation that has been passed with regard to telephone privacy. Indiana has done a good job of limiting this and FCC action may be a step backwards for Indiana residents.